All information is required to assist in determining their local resources, thereby enabling optimum use of those resources. Information requested is solely for purposes related to activities of the RAC Field Services (FS).

The ARES is a serious community resource with a long history of public service originating with its inception in 1935. It has responded countless times to communications emergencies and experience has proven the worth of regular practice within an organized group. Membership in RAC is highly desirable but not required for registration as a volunteer operator, nor is possession of any special equipment. All Radio Amateurs can be of assistance to the ARES. To learn more about the RAC FS and the ARES, visit www.rac.ca.
